The Effect is this: A card is selected, noted, returned to the deck and shuffled (could be done by spectator). The Magician brings out a prescription bottle with a bill wrapped around it and tells the spectator he earlier made a prediction. If his card isn't in the bottle he'll give him the bill. (NOTE: this is a clear Rx bottle)

The cap of the bottle is removed and the card seen inside is removed. But it's not the selection.

The cap is put back on and the bill is removed. Now seen in the bottle is the very card selected by the spectator. Well that's it.
