The origins of these coins have been clouded in mystery... some say they were used by Ninja Warriors to bribe their opponents. Another tale states that they were created in ancient China, by secret societies wishing to harness the deceptive powers of their masters. For the record allow us to state that both are true... and yet, neither is true. Such is the way of The Ninja Coins.

Effect:

You show two Chinese coins and explain that they have magical powers. They have the ability to change themselves into any coin that is pressed against them, regardless of it's shape, size or colour. To demonstrate the unique ability of the coins, you ask to borrow a 50p coin from a spectator and place it on top of one of the Chinese coin. Both are pressed together and the Chinese coin transforms into a 50p coin! You explain that the Ninja Coin is a master of disguise and will copy any coin it comes into contact with. You can show the spectators how the coin transforms back from a 50p coin to a chinese coin when touched by a chinese coin.
