SLICK POST ILLUSION:

Sketches on the next pages will give you the general construction of the post. The post consists of an outer shell with solid ends giving it the appearance of an ordinary piece of lumber. This can be decorated to suit the taste. Pressure on the front panel causes four pins to protrude at the back. Release of this pressure allows springs to draw pins in and they should fit flush with the surface. The two cross sections show the detailed construction. (C) is a strip running the full length of post. (B) is fastened to this strip, and acts as a reinforcement. The panel (A) is fastened to this strip. The pegs (D) are  $\frac{1}{4}$ " dowel and a spring surrounds each. (E) and (F) are guide strips for (C) also running the full length. The top extension strip is removable and held in place with bolts and wing nuts.

EFFECT: The post is freely shown, then the young lady takes her position at front of post under projecting arm. Magician fastens a single rope around her neck, then her waist and lastly her ankles. A separate rope is now fastened to the ankle rope, fed up and fastened to the rope at waist and throat to be secured at the top section of the post. Performer merely claps his hands and the girl walks free of the ropes, leaving the loops still on the rope.
