

Frank Garcia's Elimination

Art-Nr.: EL:MI / GTIN: neu

Frank Garcia's ELIMINATION

You may have seen card tricks and illusions before, but this effect has got to be classed as a "Card Miracle!"

EFFECT: You show a deck of cards and fan them face up to show the spectator that the cards are obviously not gimmicked or faked. Now you turn them face down and thoroughly shuffle the deck. The cards are then fanned, still face down, and the spectator selects a single card which he mentally notes and then returns to the deck which is fairly shuffled once again.

Now the cards are layed out in six piles, alternately, one atop the other. The piles are squared up, and the spectator is given two dice to toss. He is then asked to select one of the dice and the other is removed. "You may have the option," the magician says, "of having me count the numbers from left to right, from right to left, or I can spell the numbers from either direction." The spectator makes his decision, informs the magician, and the piles of cards are counted to the last pile in the count. The magician turns the cards over and asks if the two bottom cards might be the one the spectator selected. They are not. Is the top card the one? It is not. The pile is set aside, and the spectator throws the die again. The action is repeated until only one pile of cards remains.

These are spread into a six-card line, and again the process of elimination is performed until only one card is left. The magician places the die atop this card, and for the first time, asks the spectator to reveal the card he selected. The spectator then lifts the die, turns the card face up, and it is indeed the right card!
