You show a pack of cards to the audience, and ask one of the spectators to select any card he wants and sign it. You put the signed card face up on the deck, you turn the card and take it with your finger tips. Now, the signed card which you hold starts to bend very slowly.

Under your control it stops, or continues to bend slowly or quickly .. it all depends on you .. and you do not move your fingers or your hands.

When the signed card straightens up, you turn it and give it out for examination. At that point you can go on performing card tricks with the same pack of cards.
