EFFECT: 5 cards are spread to show a Royal Flush. Magician explains that 4 have BLUE BACKS and 1 a RED BACK. This he shows to be true. The Ace is obviously the only Red Backed Card.

Cards are spread face up as he tells them the object is to pick one of the Blue Back cards. This should be easy since the odds are 4 to 1.

As example, he removes the 10 and places it face up on the table. The 4 remaining cards are shown one at a time. They are all Blue Backed. He must have picked the Red Card.

The 10 is returned to the packet and the Queen placed face up on table. The 4 remaining cards are shown again to be Blue Backed.

We'll try one more time. Queen is returned and The Jack placed face up on table. Now he explains that you could not find the Blue because he told a small lie. We do not have 4 Blues and 1 Red. Cards are shown one at a time and they are all Red Backs. Spectator turns over the Jack to find it is neither Red nor Blue but has an entirely different colored back. SURPRISE!
