Tommy Wonder was an incredible performer, well-known for his smooth sleight-of-hand, masterful misdirection, and devious devices. And now, a modern master of magical creativity shares his favorite Tommy Wonder creations with you as Dan Harlan presents "The Best of the Books of Wonder." Lesson five is Shrink, Fall, Squeeze. This highly visual card routine is the fifth of ten lessons that Dan Harlan brings off the page and into your hands.

This lesson features a full routine filled with crazy card contortions! First, the card box visibly shrinks to half its size moments after removing the deck. It's an eye-catching opener! Then, the pips on the faces of the cards fall down to one end when the deck is tapped on the table. It looks as weird as it sounds! After restoring the deck back to its original condition (and performing your favorite card trick), the full-size deck is crammed into the half-sized card box! The ultimate visual ending to these eye-popping physical impossibilities!

Shrink, Fall, Squeeze includes full-color art created by Dan Harlan so that you can easily construct the necessary gimmicks right from home. This takes the brilliance of Tommy Wonder's construction and puts it within your grasp. Subscribe to the entire series today and elevate your magic with the best of The Books of Wonder.
