A Supreme Exclusive Effect!

Here's an item which is not conjuring - but which is ideal to include in any programme ... certainly excellent as a 'lead in' to other Oriental-type magical effects.

Magician picks up a sheet of pleated coloured paper. "LAST WEEK", he says, "WHEN I WAS IN CHINA, I STAYED AT THE HOME OF SO-LONG THE CHINAMAN. IT'S VERY HOT IN CHINA AND THEY HAVE BEAUTIFUL CHINESE FANS. LITTLE LOTUS BLOSSOM USES ONE LIKE THIS TO KEEP COOL.

"SOMETIMES SHE SITS UNDER THE CHERRY-BLOSSOM TREE AND HERE IT IS". Paper is transformed into a small fan and then into a replica of the cherry-blossom tree.

"AT NEW YEAR TIME, THEY HAVE BEAUTIFUL CHINESE DECORATIONS. HERE'S ONE LIKE A STAR." Paper is folded into a circular shape.

"THEY EAT THEIR FOOD FROM BEAUTIFUL CHINESE MATS". Paper now becomes an Oriental place-mat.

"I DID TELL YOU THAT I STAYED IN THE HOUSE OF SO-LONG THE CHINAMAN. HE USES A BIG, BEAUTIFUL FAN JUST LIKE THIS ONE. I'M SURE YOU'D LIKE TO SEE MY HOST HIMSELF ... AND HERE HE IS, SO-LONG THE CHINAMAN".

A giant colourful fan is made, and this suddenly changes into colourful figure of a Chinaman in Mandarin robes.

The effect as detailed is an excellent novelty and can be used at any time during the show. It can also form a novel ending. You ask the audience, "WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE SO-LONG? WELL, ALRIGHT, I'LL COUNT THREE AND I WANT YOU ALL TO SHOUT OUT 'SO LONG'. ARE YOU READY?" There's some business here. You get them to shout "SO LONG"; suddenly So-Long appears and you wave to the audience - "SO-LONG, I'LL BE SEEING YOU ... SO LONG!"

Alternatively, simply finish the effect as detailed, then quickly re-fold the paper and say, "PERHAPS YOU'D LIKE TO SEE WHERE SO-LONG KEPT HIS PRICELESS CHINESE SILKS ... HE KEPT THEM IN A CHINESE BOX". Then you go into your silk production or what-have-you, given an Oriental theme. (Supreme 'Chinese Folding Box' is ideal).

Almost any trick can be woven into the plot.

Supreme So-Long Chinaman can make for a pleasant, different sort of interlude, suitable for any show.
