Chris Larson's & Paul Richards' SLAPPED FLAT

A card is freely selected, signed, and then lost in the deck. You squeeze a quarter and it disappears! The deck is spread out to reveal the quarter has reappeared on top of the selected card! You offer to repeat the effect, but this time you ask the spectator to hold their hand on the deck to insure that you can't do anything "tricky". The coin vanishes, the deck is spread...but, uh-oh! The spectator pushed a little too hard! The quarter is actually smashed flat and stuck on the back of one card! The card is turned over...and it is the signed selection! Unfortunately, the card is ruined and the spectator is out twenty five cents...no problem, the coin visibly pops off the back of the card and returns to its original state! The card and coin can immediately be handed out for examination...heck they can keep 'em if they want!
